DETAILED ACTION

Specification

1. The new Abstract submitted 8/5/08 has been approved.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

2. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

3. Claim 16 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

- Claim 16 depends on cancelled claim 15; therefore, the scope of claim 16 is indefinite. Claim 16 is not further treated.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claims 9 and 12-14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kuwabara (JP 2002-325422) in view of Even (US 4,864,173).

Re: claim 9, Kuwabara shows an electromagnetic retarder adapted to be arranged between a brake pedal and at least one wheel of a vehicle for assisting braking thereof through a transmission, as in the present invention, the electromagnetic retarder comprising: a rotor 32 with at least one coil 28 as claimed; and a stator 35, 36 as claimed, wherein the stator has at least one cavity 40 formed therein and arranged to allow circulation of fluid therethrough for cooling the stator; wherein the electromagnetic retarder is offset in relation to the transmission 11 by means of a speed increasing device 13 as claimed. Kuwabara lacks an excitation alternator. Even teaches an excitation alternator 13 as claimed. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have modified Kuwabara's retarder to comprise an alternator as taught by Even in order to consume less energy from the battery and to provide a continuous source of energy for the retarder as taught by Even in column 5, lines 5-14.

Re: claim 12, Kuwabara shows a speed increasing device 13 for connection to the transmission, wherein the speed increasing device comprises a gear device.

Re: claim 13, Kuwabara shows the electromagnetic retarder comprises an arm 31 integrated with the rotor, and wherein the speed increasing device 13 is disposed between the arm 31 and a shaft 11 of the transmission.

Re: claim 14, Kuwabara shows the rotor to be disposed within the stator 35 and configured to rotate about an axis of the stator; and the at least one cavity 40 is formed within a wall of the stator and is extended by an extension supported by the wall that extends to an end of the stator generally perpendicular to a central axis of the electromagnetic retarder.

Response to Arguments

6. Applicant's arguments with respect to the claims have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

7. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
